EYES ON NORTH DAKOTA

Washington, Aug. 4.—Persons resisting the draft law, department of justice officials announced today, whether in Oklahoma,
or elsewhere will be sought out,
run down, and brought before the proper authorities, no matter at what cost.

Provost Marshal General Crowder and Assistant General Fitts in charge of the enforcement of the draft law, conferred today as to the steps to be taken to check draft agitators in North Dakota,
Oklahoma, and other localities.

Just what steps will be taken
were not announced today.

Mr. Fitts, in the absence of Attorney General Gregory, issued
the following statement:

"Whether in Oklahoma, or anywhere else, persons who are selected for service under the soldiers' selective act, fail to obey when properly notified and called, will be reached and overtaken by the strong arm of the federal law and brought before the proper registration board."
While department and field agents have been looking into the situation for some time past, it was said their reports had not been brought to Mr. Fitts' attention this morning. Officials were inclined to minimize the seriousness of the situation, based on unofficial reports from Oklahoma. Investigators, however, sometime ago, reported to the department that trouble might be found in enforcing the law in certain sections of Oklahoma.

"The war department is in close touch with the situation, and is prepared to take drastic and effective steps if necessary in the affected districts. Secretary Baker or General Crowder probably will issue a statement outlining the department's position later today.

Burleigh county's first 200 registrants to be examined for selective service were called by the local exemption board yesterday to report for examination at the Burleigh county court house in three separate groups,
the first 66 men August 8, the next 67 August 9 and the next 67 August 10. Names embraced in this call also were posted at the office of the exemption board and have been published in The Tribune. A personal notice has been sent each registrant summoned, but the regulations specifically recite that "the posting of the list at the office of the board will be deemed sufficient notice to charge
you with the duty of presenting yourself. The law makes it your duty to inform yourself when you are called.
The mailing is for your convenience,
but if the letter never reaches you,
you cannot make that an excuse."

Each registrant must report for physical examination on the day named in his call. If he is found physically disqualified the board will give him
a certificate which will explain what his further duties are. If he is found physically qualified and files a claim for exemption within seven days after his call, he will be given ten days after filing his claim of exemption to file proof in support of his claim of exemption. If found physically qualified, and no claim for exemption is filed, or if he fails to appear for physical examination, the registrant's
name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after the call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted will be given to the press for publication. Such lists also will be posted at the office of the local board, where they will be accessible to the public.

Industrial Claims
No claim of discharge on account of the industry in which registrant is engaged can be decided by a local board. Whether the registrant files a claim of exemption or not, he must present himself for physical examination on the day named in his notice.
If the registrant desires to file a claim for exemption, within seven days from the date his notice is mailed
he will procure a printed form from the local board, fill it out and file it with the board, before the expiration of the seventh day.

Grounds for Exemption.
The only claims for exemptions are
the following:
That you are an officer, legislative executive or judicial of the United States or the state of North Dakota.

BUTTON MARKS
EXEMPTED MAN

Here is a picture of the design for the button to be given every man called up by the draft and exempted for physical disability, family reasons, or the need of his service in industry.

One million have been ordered as a starter, each costing the government 2 cents.

Most army officers are not keen for the button idea. They say most of the men exempted will be freed
for physical disability, and they do not imagine young men would be anxious to advertise this. In the next place, millions subject to draft will not be called up for a year or more in the meantime, they would not lie in the service and they would not be entitled to a button.

The face of the button is of bronze.

PIONEER BISMARCK
ARCHITECT NAMED
ON STATE BOARD

Arthur Van Horn Given Place
on North Dakota Body—To Meet at Grand Forks

MEDICS COMMISSIONED
BY GOVERNOR FRAZIER

Arthur Van Horn, Bismarck's pioneer architect, and one of the best known building supervisors in North Dakota, yesterday was commissioned by Governor Frazier a member of the North Dakota state board of architects, which will have charge of the administration of an act passed by the last session of legislature providing for the examination and licensing of architects who desire to practice their profession in North Dakota.

Mr. Van Horn takes the place on the board vacated by A. J. O'Shea of cargos, named by Governor Frazier in place of R. B. Stacey-Judd of Minot.
Stacey-Judd, the governor's original appointee, could not qualify because he was not an American citizen. Mr.
O'Shea then was named, but he found that other duties would prevent his acceptance of the office. Mr. Van Horn has accepted the commission and has qualified as a member of the board, which will hold its first executive meeting at Grand Forks on Aug. 7.

Mr. Van Horn has been architect for practically all of the important structures in Bismarck and for a majority of those in western North Dakota. He has been a resident of the Capital City
for 25 years, has practiced 31 years,
and stands high in his profession
throughout the state.

Medical Examiners.
Appointed as members of the state board of medical examiners for a period of three years were announced
by Governor Frazier yesterday to be:
Dr. Archie G. McCanna, Minot; A. W.
Ekelsy, Fargo; J. C. Suter, Grafton.

New England Man
Suicides When His Son Joins Army

New England, N. D., Aug. 4.—
The lifeless body of Anton Nili-john was found hanging from the piping in the boiler room of the New England high school building, where he had been employed as janitor. He was an Austrian, about 50 years old and is survived by a widow and several children. It is thought the recent enlistment of his oldest son in Co. K of Dickinson had preyed upon his mind.

ising young business men, has resigned to enter the service of the United States army as accountant in the commissary department.

Elihu Root and Members of Commission to Russia Arrive at

SOCIALISTS REALIZE THAT WAR MUST BE WON FIRST

Charles Edward Russell Says
That German Influence
Handicaps Nation

A Pacific Port, Aug. 4.—The American mission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root, landed here last night.
No official statement on the work of the mission in Russia, or on the report that the mission will make on its return to Washington, could be obtained. Mr. Root declared he had nothing to say beyond the fact that the party had been hospitably received in every city visited. From the Russian revolution will be evolved a stable government, according to James Duncan, vice president of the American Federation of Labor. Its establishment is retarded, he declared, by the radicals, so-called reformists, of the character of the I. W. W., who have returned to Russia after having lived awhile in America. The success of the revolution he attributed to the workers of Russia.

Handicapped by Germany.
Charles E. Russell declared that the task of new Russia was greatly handicapped by German influence and the ceaseless activity of the German propagandists.

"Most of the trouble, however, has been caused by Russians naturalized
as Americans, who have returned to Russia since the outbreak of the revolution," he added, and said "that Russians from the United States spread the report throughout the country that America had entered the war
from cordial reasons."

Misrepresented America.
"These propagandists," he continued, "who pretended to have an in-imate knowledge of American conditions and American motives, informed their native countrymen that the government of the United States is more oppressive than the old regime at Petrograd."

He declared that the extremists of the socialists were demanding the immediate institution of a socialist commonwealth regardless of the menace of German militarism, but that most of the socialists were coming to understand that the world must be made safe for democracy before there can be any sound progress toward social betterment. Declaring that the socialist party in America is in the hands of German propagandists, Mr. Russell made his first reference to his expulsion from that party.

WILL APPEAL
TO FARMERS TO BUY WAR BONDS

New York, Aug. 4.—An appeal will be made to the farmers who have made money out of their crops to invest their earnings in the coming issue of Liberty bonds, according to an announcement made today at the liberty loan headquarters. It was also said preparations were being made for the drive at the labor classes who have enjoyed the great prosperity
through the last few years.

Seize Ships Now
Being Constructed

Washington, Aug. 4.—The emergency fleet corporation today requisitioned all merchant vessels of more than 5000 tons now building in American shipyards. Double and triple labor ships will be put in the yards to speed construction.

Quarrel Over Child
Results in Murder

New York, Aug. 4.—Repeated differences over the custody of their son, four and a half years old, whom the mother was anxious to take with her on a visit to her home in Chile, were assigned today as the cause for the murder last night of John Long-be Sautter, by his divorced wife, Mrs.
Bianca Errazuriz de Sautter, who spent last night in jail at Mineola.
The child was taken after a brief hearing which resulted in her being charged with first degree murder.

Arnold Michelson, Graduate of High School and U. of M., Gets Commission

The following from the Duluth Herald, refers to a son of H. L. Michelson, and a Bismarck boy born and reared,
who for years sold papers for The Tribune: "Arnold Michelson, well known among the younger business men of the city, yesterday received word that he has been commissioned provisional second lieutenant in the regular army. Last spring, Lieut.
Michelson was given an opportunity to take an examination at Fort Leavenworth, having been designated by the University of Minnesota authorities among the honor military graduates of that institution. He served as regimental adjutant in the college cadets during his senior year, having been graduated in 1914. He passed his examinations at Fort Leavenworth, and yesterday received his commission."

"Shortly after his graduation, Lieut.
Michelson came to Duluth, taking charge of the credit department of the Northwestern Fuel Co. Lieut.
Michelson is now awaiting orders to leave Duluth."

Lieutenant Michelson graduated from the Bismarck high school, and went from here to the University of Minnesota.

FORTY AGENTS HERE TO DISCUSS FUTURE PLANS

Bismarck is host today to 40 agents of the Provident Life Insurance company, a Bismarck corporation which has made rapid strides since its organization.

The company now has $3,001,630 insurance in force, a remarkable record for the age of the organization. Bismarck was selected as the home office because of the strategic position of this city in the commercial life of North and South Dakota and Montana.

Sessions of the agents' conference opened formally at 3 p. m. yesterday afternoon at the Commercial club rooms. W. C. Taylor, former state insurance commissioner, presided and gave the address of welcome.

He was followed by Dr. W. H. Bo-denstab, medical director of the company, who read a paper on "The Agent's Responsibility in the Matter of Risks." He gave an interesting and instructive explanation of the agents'
relation to the insurance prospect, and indicated standards by which the agents could be guided in their selection of risks.

C. L. Young, legal counsel for the company, addressed the agents on
"The Life Insurance Contract."

The closing address was given by J. L. Bell, vice president of the company, who spoke on "The Agent and His Banker."

Dinner at Club.

Following the afternoon session the agents were the guests of the company at a dinner at the Country club.
Here prizes were awarded to the men making the best record during the year. In the general agents' contest
the following were winners: First,
L. M. Snow, Williston; second, C. F.
Francis, Devils Lake, and third, C. A.
Barton, Minot. Local agents who won prizes were: J. M. Morgan, Kensal;
first; W. A. Woodworth, second;
and, F. W. Webb, Minot.

After the dinner the guests were taken to see Mary Pickford at the Auditorium.

The agents resumed the sessions
this morning at the Commercial club
with a round table informal address were given on matters of interest this afternoon.

200 MINERS
ENTOMBED

Clay, Ky., Aug. 4.—Two hundred miners are entombed in mine No. 2 of the West Kentucky Coal company here as the result of an explosion of gas today. Three men have been re-cued.

An unofficial check of the number of men entombed in the mine made at noon today indicated the number to be something less than 175. Forty-six had been brought to the surface at noon.

POSSE OF 1,000 MEN
HUNTING DOWN SLACKERS

Bridges Have Been Burned and Leading Highways Are Guarded

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 4.—Indulging in a dream of a revolution and resisting the draft law, at least half a dozen armed bands of tenant farmers, half-breed Indians and negroes are running rampant throughout five counties in east central Oklahoma today.

As the disturbed territory is about 140 miles long by about 40 miles wide,
the topography of which is rugged
and full of thickets, only an estimate can be made of the total number of rioters. Reports place the numbers variously at 500 to 1,500.

Situation in Hand.
Authorities following clashes last night, declared the situation was well
in hand, and that the strength of the movement had been broken. Numerous posses of civilians and law-enforcing officials were converging today
upon the affected districts.

Formerly occupied almost entirely by Indians, the population of the five counties include now a large mixture of tenant whites, negroes, half-breeds and Indians. Towns are few and small.

Posse of 1,000.
One thousand armed possesmen began a drive early today upon 400 of the draft resisters, who were said to be in camp at Sasakwa in Seminoe county, where the anti-draft campaign was reported to have had its birth. The rioters were expected to make a determined resistance. General bridges have been burned.

A posse guarding highways near Stonewall in southeastern Pontotoc county exchanged about 40 shots with a band of alleged draft resisters early today, according to reports here. No one was injured.

A posse with a detail of Oklahoma
national guard cavalry and state authorities left for the troubled district.

POPE'S ATTITUDE TOWARD GERMANY
UNDERGOES CHANGE

Rome, Aug. 4.—It is stated in Vatican circles that the Pope's impartial attitude toward official Germany is changing. The Pope is reported to regret greatly the action of Germany in connection with the deported Belgians. The new attitude appears to have been adopted after the fall of Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, who just before his resignation wrote what now is apparent was a farewell letter to the Holy Father, thanking him for his forbearance and favors.

Commenting on the situation, the Italia points out that the relations of the Vatican with the Austrian catholics are excellent, whereas the German bishop has been subservient to the government, but the Austrian bishops have remained independent and have even protested against German atrocities.

The Italia says further Austria still desires to keep in favor with the Vatican, hoping therein to keep a peace intermediary.

Although an absolute break with Germany is not expected at this time, it is certain the deportations from Belgium are daily making it more difficult for the maintenance of relations. The Pope's condition is uncomfortable owing to the fight made by the Anglo-French and Belgian capitalists, who long had claimed that the Pope was surrounded by central power influences.

BUILDING NEW OVERLAND HOME STARTS MONDAY

Lindberg & Amundsen Will Begin Fine New Structure on Fourth

Excavating for the new Lahr Motor Sales building at the corner of Thayer and Fourth streets will begin Monday, and the construction of this fine structure will be pushed as rapidly as possible by Lindberg & Amundsen of Bismarck, who have the general contract, and Grumb & Peet, who have the contract for the plumbing and heating. The building will be heated from the Hughes Electric company's central heating plant, from which Fourth street trunk mains now are being extended.

The new home of the Overland will be one of the finest in the northwest. The brick used in the exterior walls will be the same as that employed in the Equitable Life and the new Woolworth building in New York city, and terra-cotta will be used in the over-trim.

The structure will be three stories

FRAZIER URGES CONSIDERATION

It is charged that there are men going through the country burning crops and destroying farm machinery and other property.

Urges Precaution.

He then urges every precaution to prevent any such lawlessness, that wherever evidence warrants the police officers apprehend without fear or hesitation anyone guilty of attempting or threatening to commit any such lawless acts. "You may rest assured that this administration will back you in seeing to it that all laws are observed and enforced."

Safety Committees "Mobs."

In the next paragraph he pays his respects to "mobs in the guise of so-called safety committees, defense leagues, vigilante committees, labor organizations and even peace officers" who have trampled the constitutional rights of individuals under foot.

"The federal and state constitutions guarantee to individuals certain rights. These rights must be respected. Officials must protect the weak as well as the strong."

Must Be Firm.

In conclusion, Governor Frazier urges "the necessity of dealing with anyone who is guilty of burning, attempting or threatening to burn crops or destroy farm machinery or any other property, or committing any offense against the peace and order of the state."

"Let us use the strong arm of the law, but not the strong arm of a mad mob, or of a bullying official," says the chief executive, and he promises officers of the state that "if there should be any who so far forget their duty as to assist or countenance violence, I shall not hesitate to cause their prompt removal from office."

BURLEIGH COUNTY EXEMPTION BOARD

That you are a regular, duly ordained minister of religion.

That prior to May 18, 1917, you were a student preparing for the ministry in a recognized theological or divinity school.

That you are in the military or naval service of the United States.

That you are a subject of Germany, whether you have taken out papers or not.

That you are a resident alien who has not taken out first papers.

That you are a custom house clerk, employed by the United States in the transmission of the mails, an artificer or workman employed in an armory, arsenal or navy yard of the United States; that, under certain conditions,

William S. Hart, Triangler. William S. Hart at the Orpheum and Grand tonight only in "The Desert Man," a Triangle feature.

you are employed in the service of the United States, that you are a regularly employed licensed pilot; that you are a mariner actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States.

That you are a married man with a wife or child dependent on you for support; that you have a widowed mother dependent on your labor for support; that you are father of a motherless child under 16 dependent upon you for support; that you are a brother of an orphan child or children under 16 dependent on your labor for support; that you are a member of any well-organized religious sect or organization existing May 18, 1917, and whose then existing creed forbade its members to participate in war in any form.

These are the only ground for exemption or discharge by the local board. Another person can file a claim in your behalf, but must use different forms in filing the claim.

When Exempted.

Every claim for exemption or discharge will be decided by the local board within three days after filing of affidavits. If your claim is allowed a certificate of exemption will be issued to you, but this certificate may be recalled at any time. It may be temporary or conditional, and you may be recalled when conditions which have postponed your posting to the colors cease. If the government may appeal your claim to the district board, and your certificate may be withdrawn at once.

A claim for exemption is disallowed by the local board, the registrant's name will be certified and sent by the local board to the district board as one who has been called for service. Claim of appeal to the district board may then be made within ten days upon a form to be procured from the district board, and thereafter five days are allowed for filing proof of appeal. The decision on appealed claims must be made by the district board within five days after proof is filed.

Industrial Grounds.

Only the district board can receive claims for discharge on the grounds that you are employed in industry, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment. Such claims must be filed with the district board on or before the fifth day after the mailing and posting of notice that you have been certified by the local board as one called for service and not exempted or discharged.

The instructions read: "Remember that you have been called for military service and that the certificate of the district board (if discharge or exemption is granted) is only conditional on your remaining in the kind of industrial service on account of which you were discharged. No such exemption shall continue when a cause therefore no longer exists."

Appeals to President.

Only decisions of district boards on industrial claims can be appealed. If an appeal is desired to the president of the United States, it must be made within seven days of the mailing to the registrant of the decision of the district board.

How Notified.

As soon as your case is finally disposed of, Adjutant General Fraser will notify you by mail that you have been selected for military service. Your local boards will post a list of all persons selected for military service, and such lists will be given the press.

Notice that you have been selected for military service will not necessarily order you into service.

The notice to report for military service will come when the government is ready to receive you.

Soldier's Pay.

"A soldier's pay is not less than $30 a month and all clothing, subsistence, medical treatment and housing are furnished him. Under the law he may allot any portion of his pay to a dependent. Many soldiers receiving $30 a month are easily able to allot $25 monthly to the support of dependents. In case of death in line of duty the government will pay to the beneficiary designated by the soldier six months' pay."

Section 4 of the selective service act provides that: "Those in a status with respect to persons dependent upon them for support which renders their exclusion or discharge advisable may be discharged, but it does not require that they shall be discharged in all such cases. The discretion of local boards is invoked by this provision and such boards may well take the facts recited above into consideration in deciding claims for discharge due to dependency with a view to determining whether, as a matter of fact, the person claiming such discharge will not be in a good or better position to support his dependents after selection for military service than he was before. If such is the case, of course, the discharge should not be granted."

OFFICERS MAY BE DISCHARGED FROM SECOND REGIMENT

All Commissioned Men Who Do Not Comply With Requirements to Be Dropped

Probably a score of commissioned officers will be discharged from the Second regiment immediately upon its recognition by the war department, and before the new regiment is actually mustered into federal service, it is reported today. These officers are those whose qualifications do not comply with the requirements of the new militia bill of June 3, 1916, which provides that no militia officers shall receive federal recognition who were not at the time they were commissioned in the active service as enlisted men or officers of the national guard, officers unassigned reserve officers or graduates of some recognized military college or school where military science is taught under the direction of a regular army officer.

It is understood that instructions have been received to strictly enforce this provision, and that as a result a number of civilians commissioned officers in the new regiment will be discharged and their places filled by privates and non-commissioned men from the first regiment.

Phantom Flivver Flier Not a Crime Judge Hanley Holds

William Smith's alleged transaction in a phantom flivver, in which a local laundry girl claims Smith invested $150 of her savings which she entrusted to him for the purchase of a half interest in a car which she says she never saw, did not constitute a crime under the laws of North Dakota, ruled Judge J. M. Hanley of the Twelfth judicial district in freeing Smith this morning on a writ of habeas corpus.

Smith's attorney, Henry J. Linde, of the firm of Fisk, Murphy & Linde, yesterday procured from the supreme court a writ of habeas corpus returnable before Judge Hanley this morning. State's Attorney F. E. McCurdy appeared for the state in an effort to prove that Smith had obtained possession of the girl's funds through stealth or fraud. After the evidence was all in, Hanley ordered the action dismissed and Smith restored his liberty.

A "PROVIDENT" POLICY MEANS

THAT every feature of every policy is guaranteed

THAT its policy contracts are secured by depositing with the State of North Dakota approved interest bearing securities equal to the full reserve on all policies in force.

THAT careful and conservative business methods stand back of its obligations.

INVESTMENTS

OF all investments the purchase of a life insurance policy is the most important. It is a periodical investment deposit with a view to creating a protection for the future when all other investments may fail. Such an investment must be devoid of all speculation and should be subjected to all of the tests of safety.

The Provident Insurance Company invites analysis of its corporate strength and policy contracts.

It is a company created and made possible by over fourteen hundred professional and business men living in North and South Dakota, who in conserving their interests as stock holders, are giving their loyal support to the interests of the company and its policy holders.

The officers are well known business men who have made a success of their own affairs and are able to give every department of this young company their personal attention rather than to delegate it.

Being organized under the rigid insurance laws of North Dakota it is subject to State supervision. It is obliged to keep on deposit with the State, gilt edge securities sufficient at all times to reimburse every policy and in addition the policy holders are protected by the entire capital stock of the company which must be maintained unimpaired.

Its assets are and will be for many years, far greater in proportion to its liabilities than in most companies due to the ratio of its reserve with capital stock added, as against its policy obligations.

With its careful selection of risks all newly examined and in first class physical condition, its rate of mortality will be less than in older companies.

The investment of its funds at home under the personal supervision of its officers in only such securities as are approved by the State, is a direct benefit in the advancement of home industries which extends to the population as a whole.

Every feature of every policy is absolutely guaranteed, not a single estimate appears in any of its contracts which are as clearly stated as the English language will permit.

A "Provident" policy is protected by a security similar and equal to that required by the Government in the issuance of a National Bank Note.

NORTHERN PACIFIC OFFICIALS LOOKING OVER COAL FIELDS

Important Delegation Inspects Mines in Wilton and Beulah Districts

Beulah, N. D., Aug. 4.—Interested in the part which lignite production is to play in solving northwestern fuel problems, George T. Slade, vice president; C. L. Nichols, general superintendent; J. M. Rapelje, general manager; J. L. Burnham, assistant general freight agent; Thomas Chaloner, general roadmaster; W. E. Eberner, division superintendent; and Frank Ingalls, superintendent of bridges and building, of the Northern Pacific general staff have just completed an inspection of mines which are being opened here and of the big Washburn lignite mines at Wilton. They find all of the western North Dakota lignite mines prepared for an unusual production, and the problem will be the transporting of the coal to centers of consumption.

DARING DAYLIGHT RAID IN HEART OF OAKES NETS BOLD BANDIT PALTRY $8

Robber Draws Gun on Woman and Frightens Her to 30 Minutes' Silence

Oakes, N. D., Aug. 4.—A daring hold-up in the heart of the city in broad daylight netted a masked bandit who entered the home of Mrs. L. Spurrer in the Marsh flats. Mrs. Spurrer was seated in her bedroom, holding her baby, when the robber appeared, leveled a gun at her head and demanded her purse. He cursed when he found it poorly filled, and departed after ordering his victim to face the wall and not make a move for half an hour. Mrs. Spurrer was so badly frightened that she complied literally, and it was fully 30 minutes before an alarm was given. It developed that the robber had interrogated a five-year-old son of the Spurrers and ascertained that his father was absent before he made the raid.

Two Shots in Arm Too Much For Band Men

Concert Planned for Tonight Off —Boys Will Come Back Big Tomorrow

PROGRAM FOR SUNDAY TREAT FOR BISMARCK

Two shots in the arm or to be exact, a shot in each arm a prophylactic left for smallpox, and a prophylactic right for typhoid, have proven too much even for the band boys of the Smashing Second, and there'll be no band concert tonight.

A left handed tooter might toot with his right, but he has typhoid prophylaxis at work in that wing, and a right handed tooter could in an emergency use his left, but for the fact that little bugs are romping up and down that member chasing the life out of smallpox germs.

But it takes more than prophylaxis to put the Second regiment band out of commission long, and Director Bachman advises that his boys will be there with both mits tomorrow afternoon, when at 3:30 they offer Bismarck their first Sunday concert in the court house square. The program embraces some old favorites and some popular light opera numbers of later days, as follows:

Program.
Second Infantry Band, N. D. N. G.
H. E. Bachman, director.
March—"Semper Fidelis" . . . Sousa
"Salut d'Amour" . . . Elgar
Operatic selection—"High Jinks" . . . Rudolph Friml
Waltzes—"The Wedding of The Winds" . . . Hall
A Dream Picture—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" . . . Lampe
(Uncle Tom is dreaming in front of his cabin, visions of the old South flit before his mind's eye followed by a dream of emancipation.)
Overture—"Poet and Peasant" . . . Suppe
Finale—"The Star Spangled Banner" . . . Key-Arnold

SQUABBLE OVER BREWERY BOOKS

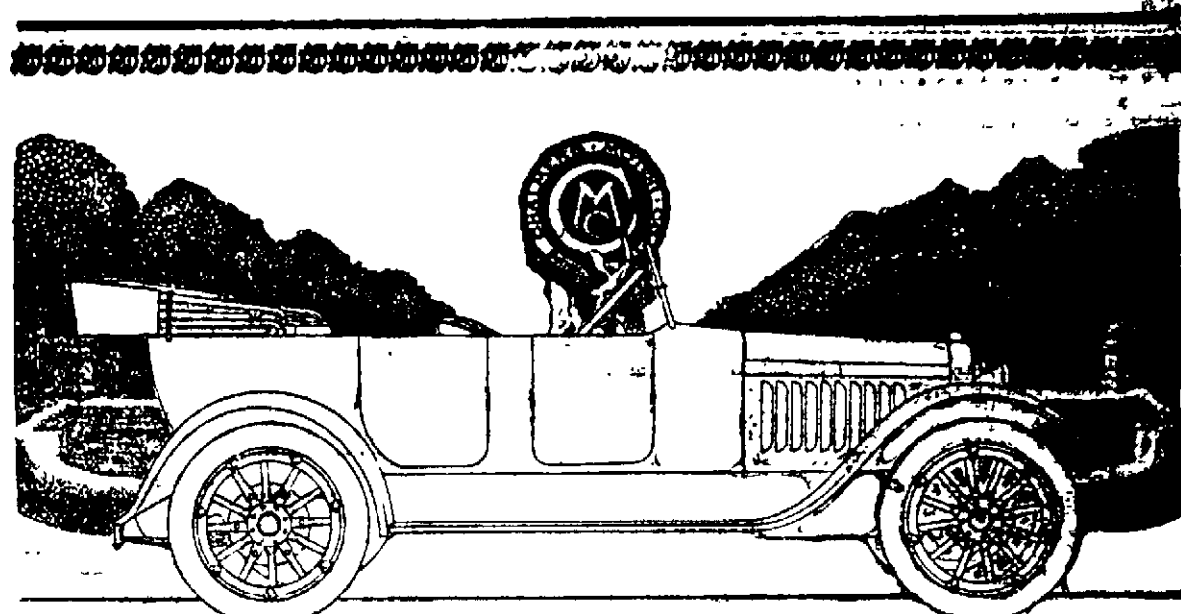

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 4.—The order issued by Federal Judge Amidon returnable today, in which United States District Attorney Hildreth was to show cause why the books and records seized in the recent East Grand Forks raid on a brewery there should not be returned to the company, was still being debated in the federal district court here today. Federal Judge Amidon will render his decision late today, after the hearing is concluded. The defense contends that the records are private, while the government alleges that the records are a part of the corporation and that they contain evidence of law evasion and therefore ought to be in the hands of the district attorney.

LITTLE GIRL PINNED BENEATH CAR WITH HEAD UNDER WATER IS SAVED

Ellendale Miss Escapes Terrible Death Through Efforts of Salesman

Ellendale, N. D., Aug. 4.—A little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Mitts narrowly escaped death when the rope with which their disabled car was being towed parted a few miles south of Ellendale, and the machine turned over with the couple and their three children, pinning the youngest child under the car in a ditch at the side of the road, where the water was over her head. N. C. Brown, an Aberdeen traveling salesman, who was towing the party, saved the little girl by lifting the car far enough to permit her to lift her head out of the water, but the family was forced to remain imprisoned in the ditch until Brown could run to a neighboring farm house for assistance.

Margery Wilson, who appeared with William S. Hart in "The Gun Fighter," again appears as his leading woman in "The Desert Man" at the Orpheum and Grand tonight.

How $1 Does A Better Wheel Repair Job Than $10

A dollar's worth of Spoktite tightens 4 wheels. Mechanical tightening would cost about $10. Spoktite keeps them tight. Mechanical tightening does not allow for swelling of the wood in dampness. Spoktite prevents swelling as well as shrinking.

SPOKTITE
Swells Wood

Tightens Loose Wheels

Thousands of people have used Spoktite for tightening wheels and not one case of failure has yet been reported. Spoktite is not a glue. It is a liquid compound that penetrates the wood, swells it to its original condition of tightness—and keeps it there. Spoktite is made from a secret formula—there is no substitute—nothing else on the market with the same purpose—only one Spoktite.

Apply Without Removing Wheels

Anyone can use Spoktite. Simply squirt a small quantity into the cracks caused by the shrinkage at hubs and felloes. In an hour your wheels will be tight as when new. The handy spout can makes it easy to apply Spoktite without removing the wheels or any part of them. Get a wheel size can for $1.00—enough for 4 wheels—and make your car safe.

Sold in Garages, Auto Supply and Hardware Stores

If your dealers do not keep Spoktite, write our factory at once and we will see that you are promptly supplied. Don't risk the dangers of loose wheels—tighten them now!

WANT THEIR PORK.

There are two kinds of bills which come up in the United States senate, that are invariably passed by a large majority, that are really a national scandal because they involve a waste of public money, and that are briefly described as "pork."

One of these bills provides for the erection of handsome government buildings in obscure villages and hamlets. As most of the senators are taken care of in this kind of measure, most of them close their eyes to the iniquity and the theft. The other measure is known as the rivers and harbors appropriation bill. Amid some things that are good, there are abundance of items that are almost total waste of money. No one objects to the great streams like the Ohio and Mississippi being improved, nor to dredging and perfecting the deep harbors on the sea coast and the Great Lakes, where there is really ship-borne traffic.

But, cunningly placed in the measure with these necessary things, there are always items for the improvement of obscure streams. So much is this the case that Senator King of Utah, in opposing this graft, said earnestly in the senate that for two days he had his secretary and others at work trying in vain to find upon the map, atlases and other publications the creeks, bays, swamps, pools and what not for which appropriations were sought.

Opposition to this kind of pork bill is nearly always futile. One of the senators, who valiantly fought it, realized the hopelessness of his fight when he said that he could stand on the floor and talk until he was black in the face and every other senator opposed to the indefensible items in the bill could do the same thing, but that when it came to a vote the majority would come to the scratch and put the measure over. And his prediction came true, only 11 senators being brave enough to say that in a time of war, when every penny counted, $28,000,000 should not be devoted to "pork."

Two out of every nine dollars will be drafted. Probably meaning, a cynic suggests, that a great many undertakers will have to go out of business.

STUDY THE ANTS!

Do ants keep cows? They do! Philosophers often have said the economy and industry of ants can't be beat, and it is a shrewd guess that they are right.

The American gardener, however, will be little bothered by this highly developed kind of ants, for they are tropical white ants, known as termites.

There are more than 100 kinds of insects that live in nests of ants—in the nests of black ants common here, as well as in nests of tropical ants. But the tropical ants seem to have got things down to a most efficient system.

These termites keep a kind of bee in their nests, guarding them jealously.

The "cows" are of one of these tribes of beetles. These "cows" have tufts of hair, licked by the ants. A pleasant (presumably) secretion is thus provided.

The ants have the "cows" well trained, for it is established that the "cows" will call the ants to dinner by tapping them with antennae at feeding time.

NOBLE WORDS.

In these days of subtle influences against this government and its war, when many German-Americans have displayed themselves all German and not American at all, except that they made their fortunes here, people often wonder what the old Germans of 1848 would say.

They were the Germans who came to this country because they could not make Germany free, the Germans who bravely fought in the union armies to preserve the union and free the blacks.

One of the most notable of these was old Franz Sigel. The last speech he made to German-Americans was in German, and a paragraph bears upon this very subject.

It almost appears as if the old soldier had a prophetic vision of what might happen and wanted to forewarn his countrymen. His words might well be taken to heart by every man in this country with a drop of German blood.

"Politically I am an American and nothing else; but I am proud to be a German. I would consider myself less than a man were I to forget the tremendous sacrifices made by the immigrant Germans in defense of their new fatherland. Shall this blood have flowed in vain? Shall we now attack this country to which we gave all we had to give? This country is our country, our interests are its interests. Here we are, here will our descendants be, here we shall stay. The union, now and forever."

If a man can't fervently echo the last three sentences he ought to leave this country. If he can't live up to the sentiment thus phrased, he may be a citizen by birth or naturalization, but he is an enemy alien in heart and in fact.

FAKE PEACE MOVES.

A bunch of heavily armed bandits break into some little hamlets. They kill some of the peaceful inhabitants. They outrage the women, torture and kill the old men and mutilate the children. They burn homes and loot everything.

A general alarm is sent throughout the countryside. Police and citizens rush to the rescue. Their desire is to make the law supreme—to put down murder and outrage, and theft and arson.

In the fighting representatives of law and order are shot down. Many of the bandits are also killed and wounded.

In addition, a state of siege is begun. The bandits have a base, a supply of food and ammunition, and some more is smuggled to them. But the outlaws realize that sooner or later they must surrender. Some of their own men are whimpering for peace. Whereupon the bandit leaders say to the representatives of the law: "Why keep up this costly fight which can only result in more dead and wounded? You see we are in actual possession of many villages. You can't dislodge us."

"Regardless of how this thing originally started, let us get together and make peace. Of course, unquiescent, we must not be punished. Our murders must not be avenged. We must not be compelled to restore to you our loot or repair the damage."

Police and citizens, who know their jobs, will naturally reply:

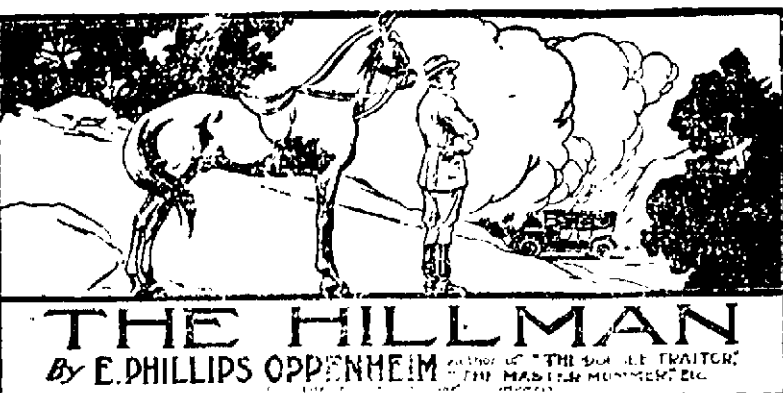

"There can be no end to this fight save your surrender. The law must rule. There can be no repetition of this reign of terror. You must pay To let you go free now, your hands tied, your pockets stuffed, would be to encourage you to try the same thing again."

That in homely, everyday language is the case of the allies versus the kaisers. Like the bandits, the armies of the kaisers broke into Belgium, France, Serbia, Rumania and Russia. They committed all the crimes in the calendar, until all the great law-abiding nations were arrayed against them. Like the bandits, the kaisers are not only enduring battles but a state of siege. They feel hunger. They realize in the end they must lose. Their own followers whimper for peace.

To satisfy them the spokesmen for Germany and Austria are once more making specious peace pleas. They want a peace which will not penalize for their horrible murders. They want a peace that will not compel them to return their loot. They want a peace which will leave them where they started before the war began—in a position to start it all over again as soon as they catch their breath.

That is the meaning of the concert action by which Chancellor Georg Michaelis of Germany and Count Czernin are talking peace to the world.

Their cunning web of lies and intrigue may take in their own people, but not the allies or America. Before we talk of peace we must take from Germany and Austria the power ever to plunge the world into another war. And that means grinding into powder their military machines and rendering the kaisers impotent.

CHAPTER XX.

The ten minutes passed very much too quickly. She was gone, and John, thrilled though he was through all his senses by the almost passionate fervor of her leave-taking, found himself once more confronted by that little black demon. There was something about all of them, all these people whom he knew to be his friends, which seemed to him to savor of a conspiracy. There was something that could be put into definite shape—just the ghost of torturing, impossible thoughts. He was in no humor to go home. Changing the order he had first given to the chauffeur, he was driven instead to a small Bohemian club which he had joined at Grailiot's instigation. He had a vague hope that he might find the great dramatist there. There were no signs of him, however, in the smoking room, or anyone else whom John knew.

He threw himself into an easy chair and ordered a whisky-and-soda. Two men close at hand were writing at desks; others were lounging about, discussing the evening's reception. One man, sitting upon the table, a recognized authority, was treating the company to a fluent dissertation upon modern actresses, winding up by contrasting Louise Maurel's style with that of her chief French rival. John found himself listening with pleased interest. The man's opinion was certainly not unfavorable to Louise.

"It is only in the finer shades of emotionalism," the critic declared, "that these French actresses get at us a little more completely even than Louise Maurel. Do you know the reason? Well tell me. It is because they live the life. They have a dozen new emotions in a season. They make a cult of feeling. They use their brains to dissect their passions. They cut their own life into small pieces and give us the result without concealment. That is where they score, if anywhere. This Mme. Latrobe, who opens over here tomorrow night, is in love at the present moment with Jean Fourbet. She had an affair with that Italian poet in the summer, so they tell me. She was certainly in Madrid in October with Breuillot, the sculptor. These men are all great artists. Think what she must have learned from associating with them! Now Louise Maurel, so far as we know, has never had but one affair, the prince of Seyre, and has been faithful to him all the time."

It was out at last! John had heard it spoken in plain words. The black demon upon which his hand had lain so heavily, was alive now, without a doubt, jeering at him, mocking at him—alive and self-assertive in the sober words of the elderly, well-bred man who lounged upon the table.

For a moment or two John was stunned. A wild impulse assailed him to leap up and confront them all, to choke the lie back down the throat of the man who had uttered it. Every nerve in his body was tingling with the desire for action. The stupor of his senses alone kept him motionless, and a strange, incomprehensible clarity of thought. He realized exactly how things were. This man had not spoken idly, or as a scandal-monger. He had spoken what he had accepted as a fact, what other people believed.

John rose to his feet and made his way toward the door. His face showed little sign of disturbance. He even nodded to some men whom he knew slightly. As he passed down the stairs, he met Grailiot. Then once more his self-control became in danger. He seized the Frenchman savagely by the arm.

"Come this way," he said, leading him toward the curd-room. "Come in here! I want to speak to you."

He locked the door—a most unheard-of and irregular proceeding. Grailiot felt the coming of the storm.

"Well," he exclaimed grimly, "Trouble already, eh? I see it in your face, young man. Out with it!"

"I was sitting in the smoking room there, a few moments ago," he began, jerking his head toward the door. "There were some men talking—decent fellows, not dirty scandal-mongers. They spoke of Louise Maurel."

Grailiot nodded gravely. He knew very well what was coming.

John felt his throat suddenly dry. The words he would have spoken choked him. He banged his fist upon the table by the side of which they were standing.

"Look here, Grailiot," he cried, almost piteously, "you know it is not true, nor likely to be true! Can't you say so?"

"Stop, my young friend!" the Frenchman interrupted. "I know nothing. It is a habit of mine to know nothing when people make suggestions of that sort. I make no inquiries. I accept life and people as I find them."

"But you don't believe that such a thing could be possible?"

"Why not?" Grailiot asked steadily. John could do no more than mutter a repetition of his words. The world was falling away from him.

"I will not discuss this matter with you, my friend. I will only ask you to remember the views of the world in which we live. Louise Maurel is an artist, a great artist. If there has been such an affair as you suggest, between her and any man, if it were something which appealed to her affections, it is my opinion that she would not hesitate. You seem to think it an outrageous thing that the prince should have been her lover. To be perfectly frank, I do not. I should be very much more surprised at her marriage."

John made his escape somehow. He remembered opening the door, but he had no recollection of reaching the street. A few minutes later, however, he found himself striking down Piccadilly toward Hyde Park corner.

He found a taxicab and was driven toward the Minto. He was conscious of a wild desire to keep away from his rooms. Every pulse in his body was tingling. He was feverishly awake, eager for motion, action, excitement of any sort. Suddenly he remembered the night club to which he had been introduced by Sophy on the first night of his arrival in London. The address, too, was there quite clearly in his disordered brain. He leaned out of the cab and repeated it to the driver.

He Wants an "Honorable" Peace!

The little place was unexpectedly crowded when he entered, after having handed his hat and coat to a valet. A large supper party was going on at the farther end, and the dancing space was smaller than usual. The maître d'hôtel was escorting John to a small table in a distant corner, which had just been vacated, when the latter heard his name suddenly called by a familiar voice. Sophy, who had been dancing, abandoned her partner precipitately and came hurrying up to John with outstretched hands.

"John!" she exclaimed. "You, of all people in the world! What do you mean by coming here alone at this time of night? Fancy not telling me is anything the matter?"

"Nothing," he replied. "I really don't exactly know why I am here. I simply don't want to go to bed."

"Where is the prince?" he asked. Sophy, struck by something in his voice, swung around and looked at him. Then she thrust both her arms through his, clasped her two hands together, and led him firmly away. A glimmering of the truth was beginning to dawn upon her.

"Tell me where you have been since you left the reception," she insisted, when at last they were seated together.

"Well, till I have ordered some wine," he said.

A waiter served them with champagne. When John's glass was filled, he drained its contents. Sophy watched him with surprise. She came a little closer to him.

"John," she whispered, "you must tell me—do you hear? You must tell me everything! Did you take Louise home?"

"Yes."

"What happened, then? You didn't quarrel with her?"

"Nothing at all happened," he assured her. "We parted the best of friends. It wasn't that."

"Then what? Remember that I am your friend, John, dear. Tell me everything."

"I will tell you," he assented. "I went to a little club I belong to on the Adelphi Terrace. I sat down in the smoking room. There was no one there I knew. Some men were talking. They had been to the reception tonight. They were comparing French actresses and English. They spoke first of the French woman, Latrobe, and her lovers; then of Louise. They spoke quite calmly, like men discussing history. They compared the two actresses, they compared their lives. Latrobe, they said, had lovers by the score—Louise only one."

Sophy's hand stole into his. She was watching the twisting of his features. She understood so well the excitement underneath.

"I think I can guess," she whispered. "Don't hurt yourself telling me. Something was said about the prince?"

His eyes blazed down upon her. "You, too?" he muttered. "Does the whole world know of it and speak as if it did not matter? Sophy, is it true? Speak out! Don't be afraid of hurting me. You call yourself my friend. I've been down, looking at the outside of her house. I dared not go in. There's a fire burning in my soul! Tell me if it is true!"

"You must not ask me that question, John," she begged. "How should I know? Besides, those things are so different in our world, the world you haven't found out much about yet. Supposing it were true, John," she went on, "remember that it was before you knew her. Supposing it should be true, remember this—your idea of life is too absurd. Is one creed made to fit human beings who may differ in a million different ways? A woman may be as good as any ever born into the world, and yet take just a little love into her life, if she be true and faithful in doing it. I don't believe there is a drier or sweeter woman breathing than Louise, but one must have love. Don't I know it! A man may be strong enough to live without it, but a woman—never!"

The skirts of the women brushed their table as they danced, the rhythm of the music rose and fell above the murmur of laughter and conversation. John looked around the room, and a sort of despair crept in upon him. It was no good! He had come to London to understand; he understood nothing. He was made of the wrong fiber. If only he could change himself! If it were not too late!

He could make himself like other men! "I must not ask you any more questions, Sophy," he said. "You are my friend, and you have spoken very sweetly. Tomorrow I will go and see her."

"And tonight, forget it all," she pleaded. "Wipe it out of your memory. Tonight she is not here, and I am. Even if you are furiously in love with her, there isn't any harm in your being just a little nice to me. Give me some champagne; and I want some caviar sandwiches!"

"I wonder why you are so good to me, Sophy," he exclaimed, as he gave the order to a waiter. "You ought either to marry your young man down at Bath, or to have a sweetheart of your own, a companion, some one quite different."

"How different?"

"Someone who cared for you as you deserve to be cared for, and whom you cared for, too."

"I cannot take these things as lightly as I used to," she answered a little sadly. "Something has come over me lately—I don't know what it is—but I seem to have lost my taste for flirtations. John, don't look up, don't turn round! I have been afraid of the prince all the evening. When you came in, I fancied that you had been drinking. When the prince asked me something about you, an hour or so ago, I knew that he had. I saw him like it once before, about a year ago."

Don't take any notice of him! Don't talk to him, if you can at all help it!"

Toward their table the prince was slowly making his way, skillfully avoiding the dancers, yet looking neither to the right nor to the left. His eyes were fastened upon John. If he had been drinking, as Sophy suggested, there were few signs of it. His walk was steady; his bearing, as usual, deliberate and distinguished.

He came to a standstill beside them. Sophy's fingers clutched at the tablecloth. The prince looked from one to the other.

"You have robbed me of a guest, Mr. Strangeway," he remarked; "but I hear you no ill-will. It is very seldom that one sees you in these haunts of dissipation."

"It is a gala night with me," John replied, his tone raised no more than usual, but shaking with some new quality. "Drink a glass of wine with me, prince," he invited, taking the bottle from the ice-pail and filling a tumbler upon the table. "With me, luck, won't you? I am engaged to be married!"

"I wish you happiness with all my heart," the prince answered, holding his glass up. "May I not know the name of the lady?"

"No doubt you are prepared for the news," John told him. "Miss Maurel has promised to become my wife."

The prince's hand was as steady as a rock. He raised his glass to his lips. "I drink to you both with the greatest of pleasure," he said, looking John full in the face. "It is a most remarkable coincidence. Tonight is the anniversary of the night when Louise Maurel pledged herself to me."

John's frame seemed for a moment to dilate, and fire flashed from his eyes.

"Will you be good enough to explain those words?" he demanded.

The prince bowed. He glanced toward Sophy, and then back to John. "Since you insist," he replied, "Tonight, then, let me tell you, is the anniversary of the night when Louise Maurel consented to become my—"

What followed came like a thunder-clap. The prince reeled back, his hand to his mouth, blood dripping upon the tablecloth from his lips, where John had struck him. He made a sudden spring at his assailant. Sophy, shrieking, leaped to her feet. Everyone else in the place seemed paralyzed with wonder.

John seized the prince by the throat, and held him for a moment at arm's length. Then he lifted him off his feet as one might lift a child from the floor. Holding his helpless victim in a merciless grip, he carried him across the room and deliberately flung him over the table toward his empty chair.

Sophy held John by the arm, clutching it hysterically, striving to drag him away. But to John the room was empty. He stood there, a giant, motionless figure, his muscles still taut, his face tense, his eyes aflame, glaring down at the prostrate figure of the man on whom he had wreaked the accumulated fury of these last days and weeks of madness.

Women Love Babies

It is woman's nature to naturally respond to the charm of a pretty child. Who does not adore babies? The longing to possess a baby is often outweighed by the inherent fear of the period of distress. There is a most wonderful external preparation known as "Mother's Friend". It is a safe external massage which relieves pain and discomfort at the crisis; makes elastic those fibers and muscles which nature is expanding, and wonderfully soothes the inflammation of breast glands. It enables the expectant mother to preserve her health and strength, and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided the suffering and danger which would otherwise accompany such an occasion. Every nerve, muscle and tendon is thoroughly lubricated. Get a bottle today from the drugist, and write to the Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. 2, 300 Lamar Building, Atlanta, Ga. They will mail you an intensely interesting little book, "Motherhood and the Baby". The book is free. Every woman should herself call it "friend" makes it possible for you to do as and should be used regularly without fail night and morning.

MARGUERITE CLARK

MARGUERITE CLARK, Famous Players-Paramount

Exquisite little Marguerite Clark is the star of the Famous Players adaptation of the celebrated fairy tale, "Snow White," which is the Paramount picture at the Bismarck theater. Having starred in the stage adaptation of the story under the personal direction of Winthrop Ames at the Little theater, Miss Clark will undoubtedly prove irresistible in the motion picture version of the beloved tale. Director J. E. Beale Dawley, who produced the picture, has used the same costumes which created such favorable comment when they were worn in the stage play. The feature will be shown one night only, Monday, Aug. 6.

boosters. Mr. Turner was in the city between trains yesterday.

To Have Vacation.—E. H. L. Vesperman claims he has not taken a vacation for 15 years, but this season he expects to take advantage of the chance for a vacation, and expects to visit Yellowstone park.

Totten Here.—Mr. and Mrs. George A. Totten of Bowman were Bismarck visitors yesterday. Mr. Totten is one of Governor Frazier's rejected nominees for a place on the state board of regents and is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Lillian Totten, postmistress at Bowman, recently charged in the United States senate with sedition.

Battling the H. C. of L.—Ellsworth Finlayson, son of Frank Finlayson, a minor, and William Kkwas, two Bismarck youths charged with attempting to solve the high cost of living by extracting six dozen cans of pork and beans, half case of beer, a half barrel of malt, 10 pounds of sausage and various other edibles and drinkables from the basement of William Weinstein's south side grocery, have been bound over to district court by Justice Blackford for burglary in the third degree.

Gets Slacker.—James Jensen, in charge of the Northern Pacific police on the night shift at the Missouri river bridge, yesterday brought to the county jail a typical boy who also is a typical slacker, minus registration card and all knowledge of and interest in the registration and the draft. The gentleman of the road, who was crossing the bridge when gathered in, will be held at the county jail until federal authorities decide what to do with him.

For Wife Desertion.—When a friend of Lonnie Eames wrote into the Burleigh county exemption board to learn whether his number had been drawn, he halted the trap which resulted in the arrest of Mr. Eames at Crosby on a charge of deserting his wife and children in Bismarck. A friend, whose husband was associated with Lonnie, wired Mrs. Eames that said Lonnie had no intention of coming back to Bismarck and assuming responsibility for her and her children, whereupon Mrs. Eames had a warrant issued for her husband. The latter was located yesterday through his friend's interest in the draft, and his arrest at Crosby followed.

"THE DESERT MAN"

STARS Wm. S. HART

"The Desert Man," a Triangle picture produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince and starring William S. Hart, will be shown at the Orpheum and Grand theaters tonight only.

It is a tale of the Mojave desert with Hart in the role of a grim, firm-lipped man who brings prosperity to the desolate town of Broken Hope because he has faith and energy to accomplish big things.

Margery Wilson is the girl who attracts the wanderer of the desert to linger in Broken Hope and causes him to make a fight for its betterment. Although she runs away with a suave doctor, "the desert man" maintains his belief in her.

Then comes the night when in fierce wrath he throws himself on his horse and rides to a notorious dance hall to which little Buster, a waif of his adoption, has been taken. He cleans up the place, and upon returning home finds the girl he loves. She is wearing the dress of a dance hall woman! The man, the young woman and the little boy form a triad of happiness in the final scene.

If you wish a seat tonight you will have to go early. Regular prices of 10 and 15 cents will be the rule.

Meaning of Basil.—In Italy a girl who wears a spray of basil is considered to be inviting her lover to give her a kiss, and it is consequently held in not too high reputation, though in other lands it is believed to be the plant of purity and is said to wither at the touch of her who has lost that virtue.

Sincerity Gives Charm.

If we study these poets and teachers of by-gone times when we love whose words still have the bloom upon them, for example, Aeschylus, Plato, Jesus, Milton, Pascal, Rousseau, Emerson, Whitman, Stevenson, we shall find that first of all they were sincere. They did not need to study what Voltaire calls "le grand art de plaire," the grand art of pleasing, for their transparency, their spontaneity gave infinite charm.—James Townsend.

Saturday Evening Letter

By Justice J. E. Robinson

I have a great state and national problem which I am bound to solve, and it is this:

How may we secure efficiency in public service, especially in the judicial department? Certain it is that our present methods are grossly inefficient and shamefully wrong. On the trial of a case in district court a lawyer with no defense may set himself down with a settled purpose, by every artifice to defeat justice. To every question he makes long objections and exceptions with no settled purpose only to confuse the witnesses and to get some error into the record. When a verdict goes against him he appeals to this court, asking a review on 70 or more trivial points. The court hears arguments for two hours or more and in four or five months a judge writes a long-winded decision holding that the judgment should be reversed and the case sent back for a new trial on some quibbling question of practice which should have met with a reprimand.

Now, on the very day a case is argued to the supreme court it should be assigned to some judge to write an opinion and distribute the same to the judges. This he should do within a week and before any other case is assigned to him. The judges should consider and finally dispose of every case within two weeks after it is argued, and while it is fresh in their minds, and not when it is forgotten. By needless delays the judges double their work. They double it again in writing long-winded decisions on numerous trivial points of no merit, which deserve only a severe reprimand. The work is also increased and delayed by lack of punctuality. A judge does not feel ashamed to come to his chambers at 9:30 o'clock or 10 o'clock in the morning or at 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon. I am sure it is not thus with the workers of the Ford Motor company or with those who work on the streets of Bismarck. They are on time to a minute and their work is amazingly efficient. They sit down by a tree, eat their lunch and get up and work like men deserving honor and respect.

I am the acting censor of the supreme court, and as such, I am truly in sympathy with my friend, the regular orthodox devil. He has been sadly maligned and slandered. His office is to punish evildoers and to correct wrongs and not to tempt any person to do wrong. When his eyes are red it is from weeping over man's inhumanity to man, and not from drinking bad liquors. He is no drunkard, no thief, no idler. He owes no grudge or ill-will to any person. Were he a justice of the supreme court he would be on time to a minute every day and give just and righteous decisions. To him or to our governor I would gladly resign my judgeship play truant boy, come late to school, as they often do, or do not come at all for days. It is no pleasure for me to call them to time and to hear them say it is none of my business. It is truly amazing that any judge should claim the right to go and come as he pleases and to hold up and delay the court's business. But such is the fact. Were the judges hired to do the same work for a James Hill or any good business company they would do it.

Today's new corporations are: The Farmers' Elevator Co. of Napoleon, a co-operative concern capitalized for $15,000, and incorporated by Ole Nelson, Ole Thorson, Peter Weber, Joseph Marquardt, Jr., and Ole L. Menness, all of Napoleon; and the Co-operative Farm Produce Co. of LaMoure, capitalized for $5,000 by C. A. Finch, August Benn, Herman Goshel, T. S. Hunt and L. O. Eyede.

How Long Must I Suffer From the Pangs of Rheumatism? Is there no real relief in sight? Doubtless like other sufferers, you have often asked yourself this question, which continues to remain unanswered. Science has proven that your Rheumatism is caused by a germ in your blood, and the only way to reach it is by a remedy which eliminates and removes these little pain demons from your blood. This explains why liniments and lotions can do no permanent good, for they cannot possibly reach these germs which infect your blood by the millions.

S. S. S. has been successfully used for Rheumatism for more than fifty years. Try it to-day, and you will find yourself at last on the right track to get rid of your Rheumatism. You can get valuable advice about the treatment of your individual case by writing to the Chief Medical Adviser, Swift Specific Co., Dent, O. Atlanta, Ga.

KEEP Charlotte, Champion Skater, Has Receipt for Putting One Over on Old Sole This Torrid Weather COOL

By Paul Purman

Warm, isn't it. Well here's a receipt for keeping cool.

Just follow the advice and pattern after the various pursuits of Charlotte and keep cool.

Charlotte is the greatest fancy skater in the world. Last winter she gave skating lessons to Tribune readers.

Charlotte doesn't believe in being warm and uncomfortable.

"What's the use," is her philosophy, "when it's so easy to be cool and comfy."

The secret of Charlotte's success at skating and at keeping cool is that she does things right. In order to be a champion skater it is necessary to be a good all-around athlete.

In order to do athletic stunts and keep cool it is necessary to use a little judgment in doing the right things at the right time.

Charlotte is best known as a skater. But she will go on the courts and beat most girls playing tennis or shoulder a golf bag and give Col. Bugie a warm run for his money. She is a proficient horsewoman and is almost as good in the water as she is on the ice. And, shades of Isaac Walton, and Ananias, she can fish from baiting the hook to taking the trout off the line.

Between her athletic accomplishments Charlotte manages to find just the right thing to do at the right time.

Just now she is spending a lot of time in the water, not on the beaches, mind you, and is teaching the athletic merrymakers a few things they didn't know about their own jobs.

SPORTS CHATTER

Detroit police commissioner stopped betting on the Grand Circuit races. He probably had never heard this was considered the "sport kings" or else he didn't care a whoop what the kings said about it.

Contrary to general opinion Benny Leonard holds two titles. He's champion lightweight and champion alibi when it comes to telling why he doesn't enlist.

They don't take half-way measures in St. Louis. While every city on the National league circuit has been bombarding Empire Lord Byron with epithets, St. Louis used pop bottles.

We would like to have Jess Willard as a bodyguard to staff all the guys who ask, "Is it hot enough for you?"

Swimming has become more popular in Chicago than ever before. That's because they allow them to wear Annette Kellermanns there.

Chicago swimmers enjoyed a marathon race in the Chicago river recently. Probably trained for it by swimming in a mud bath.

Three Chicago boxers joined the navy. Of course since Chicago has barred the free lunch a lot of these guys are looking for a place to eat.

Here's a chance for the nuts to bet on one of their own family. Heavy Nat is entered in a New York race.

Ty Cobb reported late at a game the other day and batted 1,000. Jennings should see that Ty is always late.

There is nothing now to keep Leonard from enlisting, says a content. No, nothing, except Benny's inclination.

Benny Leonard was fined $25 for speeding. Freddie Welsh and Johnny Kilbane ought to have him arrested for mayhem.

Benny Leonard overlooked a good bet. He lost a good meal ticket when he knocked out Kilbane.

Well, at that, $11,000 isn't a bad price for being knocked out and then have to pay a $25 fine.

The Baltimore Feds are to resume their $900,000 suit. Must have lots of coin to lay out to law-years.

Al Mameaux wasn't included in the first draft. Which must have convinced Manager Bezdek that the luck is all against him.

Maybe Connie Mack would lend his white elephant to the Siamese army. But it would be an awful blow to the allies.

A ballplayer in a petition for bankruptcy gave his assets as four suits of clothes. At the present cost of clothes no wonder he's a bankrupt.

Very Good Benny I'd like to go to France and fight. The trouble is the purse is slight.

Also Big Jess I'm too big to go to war.

Alas, alas, haw-haw, haw-haw. Honus Wagner's latest pictures make him look like an old man.

There's lots of youngsters who would be willing to look like that if they could have Honus' batting average.

Women's colleges are adding shot-put and discus throws to their athletic events. Probably to prepare them for plate throwing and flation hurling contests after marriage.

Maybe Charlie Chaplin's feet wouldn't do him much good in a 100-yard dash, but who ever heard of 100 yard dasher getting $500,000 a year

Just as an afterthought why not send some of our movie vampires to the trenches to demoralize the Fritzies.

Someone has asked Jess Willard to give a boxing exhibition at Plattsburg. Jess hasn't answered yet. He's probably figuring on the size of the purse.

Cincinnati was so unused to being in second place that the people forgot even the beer gardens to welcome the club home.

Jim Corbett has again picked the Giants to win. Which caused the bookies to lay bigger odds on the Reds.

Uncle Sam is to buy 50,000 mortoreycles (headline). And we've always had so much respect for Uncle in the past.

Jawa McStraw probably couldn't see the joke if Matty Rousch, Groh and a few more Giant cast-offs should beat him out of the flag.

CALL HIGGINS SUCCESSOR TO MEL SHEPPARD

The Irish-American athletic club of New York believes it has a fit successor to Mel Sheppard as a middle distance runner in Joe Higgins, recent conqueror of Joie Ray over the mile route, who is said to be the most consistent performer over all distances from the 440 to the mile the east has seen in years.

Higgins received his early training at Holy Cross, where he had no opposition over the half-mile distance and was scarcely ever headed over the difficult quarter.

Higgins has had remarkable success at 1000 yards and his time of 1:27 1-5 against Ray for the mile was exceptional over the sloppy track on which the race was run.

Higgins has not yet decided whether he will stick exclusively to the half mile and the 1000-yard distances or whether he will go in seriously for the mile. Past performances seem to indicate that he runs more naturally over the middle distances.

MURPHY LOOKS LIKE REPEATER ON BIG RING

Tommy Murphy has begun his war of ruthlessness on other Grand Circuit drivers this year.

Murphy's name has become almost synonymous with leading winner on the big ring and this year promises to be no exception.

Murphy has won 10 races out of 15 starts this season, and his winnings so far are much greater than those of any other driver.

Murphy has an uncanny eye for horseflesh and usually comes to bat at the start of each season with a string of youngsters which tie knots in all opposition.

This year has proved no exception as Murphy has come to bat with some of the best young prospects of the year.

BILL RARIDEN MAKES M'CARTY'S SHOES FIT

Recent records of the National league show that Bill Rariden of the New York Giants is leading his teammates at bat with a percentage of .31 and is in eighth place in the league.

Rariden started the season as second string catcher of the Giants, being considered a weak hitter.

When Lew McCarty broke his leg early in the season Rariden was pushed into the first position and it was up to him to make good.

In the field Rariden was always

LEONARD MAY BRING BACK PALMY DAYS OF BOXING; HAS EVERYTHING OLD TIMERS WON FIGHTS WITH

By Paul Purman

Just a moment in passing on the merits of Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world and conqueror of two of the greatest champions of his time.

Quoting Mat Hinkle, fight impresario and famous referee: "Leonard is the greatest lightweight of all time."

Perhaps Hinkle, who made the statement at ringside was overimpressed by the New Yorker's work against Kilbane, but nevertheless the statement will stand with thousands of fans and critics who have seen both him and the old timers in action.

Any fighter who could humble Freddie Welsh, the greatest defensive lightweight the game has ever known in less than nine rounds and take the measure of Kilbane, one of the greatest fighters of the age, in three rounds is far above the level of present day fighters and at least on the level with such ring masters as Erne, Joe Gans and McAuliffe.

In addition Leonard has proved his isolation at the top of his class by defeating the best lightweight challengers, Richie Mitchell and Joe Welling by knockouts.

There is no secret to Leonard's success. He is one of these natural fighters who appear now and then in ring animals, a boy with cleverness of instinct, with tremendous hitting power, with the foresight to outguess the other fellow and beat him to the punch and with indomitable fighting spirit.

There has been nothing phony about any of Leonard's fights. He has never stalled because he has never learned to stall. When he climbs through the ropes there is sure to be three minutes of solid fighting to every round with a possible knockout if the opportunity presents itself.

considered as capable a catcher as McArt and just how well he has held up his end at bat is shown by the record.

McGraw has been particularly fortunate in having his second string catchers come to life when the regular was unfit for duty.

When Chief Myers was injured in the world series of 1913 Art Wilson and Larry McLean filled in and played the kind of ball the Chief would have been proud of.

times at bat in a game between Baltimore and St. Louis.

Honus Wagner once collected seven hits in seven times at bat in two games of a double header. Honus made a total of 16 bases on two homers, three doubles and a brace of singles.

This record was excelled by Nap Lajoie who collected eight hits in a double bill, one of them a triple. Ed Delehanty, Bob Lowe and Dan Brouthers each are credited with four home runs in one game.

ROBBIE MAY BE FAT BUT HE WAS SOME CLOUTER

The fact that Ty Cobb and one or two others this year have succeeded in making five hits in five times at bat in a game recalls the greatest of all records for hitting in one game which dates back to the days when rotund Wilbert Robertson was a willowy catcher on the Baltimore club. In 1892 Robinson made seven hits in seven

Man Should Know Truth.
Each man should learn what is within him, that he may strive to mend; but must be taught what is without him, that he may be kind to others. It can never be wrong to tell him the truth, or even if a fact shall discourage or corrupt him. It is still best that he should know it; for it is in this world as it is, and not in a world made easy by educational suppression, that he must win his way to shame or glory.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

The Woman Matter.
John, age five, has many times displayed remarkable traces of matured wisdom in more than one matter. The other day he stopped at the home of his aunt. She called for him to "come on in." John stepped into the parlor, but hehold, it was filled with woman guests—a suffrage tea. John surveyed the room for a minute, and then, with a long sigh, he turned to the door.

Peculiarity of Plants.
By experiment with sugar beets, it has been proved that plants growing close to the ground thrive better when planted in rows running from east to west rather than from north to south. While the per cent of gain is not large, especially in a temperate climate, it costs the farmer nothing to reap this slight benefit.

First Jaunting Car.
The first Irish jaunting car was established by Carlo Banceloni in the year 1815. He started in Dublin and drove to Coherer, charging about four cents a mile for passengers. A quarter of a century later this humble beginning had grown to an establishment of 67 jaunting cars, requiring the services of 900 horses.

By a Frenchman's invention as a language student hears a word spoken by a phonograph he also sees it appear on a printed roll in conjunction with its translation in his own tongue.

WORLD'S WORK FOR AUGUST
In the World's Work for August, the First Secretary of our Legation at Brussels, Mr. Hugh S. Gibson, gives a vivid picture in a journal which he kept at the time and which is now published with the consent of the state department at Washington, of conditions in the Belgian capital in the early days of the German invasion.

"SING IT ON YOUR ORGAN" MAY SOON BE MUSICAL POSSIBILITY
Cleveland, O., Aug. 4.—An organ recital a few years from now will be actually a recital of words besides music. And the organ will do it all. For the last ten years, Prof. Dayton C. Miller of the Case School of Applied Science here, has been at work inventing an organ which will actually sing words. He has already formed combinations of pipes to speak the vowels and to say "mama" and "papa."

"I have only to perfect the instrument to say some simple sentence," says Dr. Miller. "Then the problem of having an orchestra and chorus in one—will be solved."
Dr. Miller has invented one complicated machine, he calls the phonodisk. To make the organ speak, Dr. Miller says he had to analyze the simplest sound first into its component parts. And to do this he had to see the sounds. Hearing them wouldn't do. So he invented the phonodisk which

DAUNTLESS DUNN DIREFULLY DENTED BY AIRSHIP RAID

Vigilantes Organizing to Repel Invasion of Zeppelins and Crop Destruction

Dunn Center, N. D., Aug. 4.—Dauntless Dunn has been direfully dented by the German airship raids of the last week. A hostile aeroplane has been reported in various parts of the county, and the entire countryside is panic-stricken.

A few weeks ago a young Austrian who stated that he was from the crew of an interned German ship applied to Rep. A. A. Lieberbach of Killdeer for employment. The Dunn county statesman offered the young man $40 a month, but the latter advised later that his services were worth $60, and suggested that the league representative from this country go to a certain hot spot for his help. A few nights later there was seen in the sky what appeared to be an aeroplane carrying a powerful searchlight.

Parties who claim to have seen the nightly visitor claim it landed two miles east of Dunn Center. An investigation the following morning revealed no trace of the plane. That night it was seen again, and upon several successive nights the direful spectacle appeared in the heavens.

Hazen and Golden Valley have reported sighting the plane; isolated farmers claim to have seen it swooping near the earth.

The prairies are tinder dry; wheat and other grain crops are ready for the harvest and would burn freely. Dunn county fears the plane is awaiting the psychological moment to scatter over the fields flaming bombs which will result in the complete destruction of the crops.

The Dunn County Journal editor, who had an opportunity to interview the young Austrian while he was here, suggests that he is here to spy out the land, and that the real damage will be done by a Zeppelin which is to come later. In any event, Dauntless Dunn is badly scared and is organizing for protection.

FOUR OFFICERS FINISH CRUISE

Waseca, Minn., Aug. 4.—Four officers of the army signal corps ended here today a balloon flight which began at Omaha, Neb., last night. The 326 miles were covered in six hours, which is said to be a record at a height of 4,300 feet most of the way.

The four men who made the trip were Captain Kennedy, Captain Page, Lieutenant Davidson and Sergeant McCullough.

Jamestown Gets Best Rain Since Registration Day

"It's a long time between rains, in Stutsman county. Last night Jamestown reported three-quarters of an inch rainfall. This is the first really good rain Stutsman county has had since registration day, June 5. It did crops in Stutsman county, particularly toward the Kinderhook line, an inestimable amount of good."

Moorhead station reported .36; Fessenden, .32; Amana, .30; Bowbells, .25; and Pembina, .20. A number of stations, including Bismarck, reported less than a tenth of an inch. West of the river there was little or no rain.

While the showers locally were accompanied by a brisk pelter of hail, no damage has been reported to growing crops. The biggest sufferer of whom any knowledge is had was the Huskins Floral company, in whose greenhouses about $200 worth of glass was cracked or broken. The hail did not fall with sufficient force, however, to batter its way through to the plants under the frames. One Bismarck landholder was advised this morning that his crop loss would run 40 per cent, but he is inclined to believe the report exaggerated.

The storm last evening traveled in a northeasterly direction, and the heaviest rainfall was experienced east and north of Bismarck.

WILLYS-OVERLAND RETAIL
SALES IN U. S. PASS THE MILLION DOLLAR MARK

On July 5 reports of 1,264 cars sold at retail in the United States were received at the Toledo headquarters of Willys-Overland, Inc.

This single day's business amounted to $1,048,020, a new mark for Willys-Overland retail sales.

This amount if for new cars only and does not include the money paid for freight shipments to the points of sale.

On July 2 Willys-Overland, Inc., received reports of 1,104 retail sales, $992,720 worth of business.

Three million one hundred and fifty thousand dollars was approximately the total of the Willys-Overland retail business in the United States for the first week in July, despite the fact that there were only five working days in that week. This was a daily average of more than $625,000.

At this rate retail sales reported to the home office by Willys-Overland dealers in July will pass the sixteen million dollar mark anticipated by Willys-Overland officials.

These sales were recorded in the United States alone and do not include Canadian or foreign sales, which are also exceeding all previous records.

BELDEN IS APPOINTED NEW
WILLYS-OVERLAND ENGINEER

An announcement of unusual interest has just been made by John N. Willys, president of The Willys-Overland company of Toledo, Ohio, to the effect that E. H. Belden, widely known in motor car engineering circles, has been appointed chief engineer in full charge of the engineering departments of The Willys-Overland company.

Belden has been affiliated with the Overland for the past six months during which time he has been in charge of the research department. Prior to his coming to Toledo he occupied the position of engineer of the Packard Motor Car company of Detroit.

"There are few men in the automobile business who are more thoroughly versed in motor car construction," said Mr. Willys with reference to Belden's appointment. "I wanted the best man I could find for the job—for in a measure the success of every automobile concern depends largely on the chief engineer's efficiency. Belden's knowledge and experience qualify him for the position beyond the question of a doubt."

D. W. FIGGIS HEADS SMITH
MOTOR TRUCK CORPORATION

An unlimited capacity for hard work and a conservative viewpoint are the outstanding qualities of the new president of the Smith Motor Truck Corporation, D. W. Figgins, whose elevation to the president's chair is announced today.

Mr. Figgins succeeds E. I. Rosenfeld, who has been the guiding spirit of the corporation throughout its formative period and who is now the chairman of the board of directors.

In the new executive, the company has a man of forceful personality. Several months ago Mr. Figgins came to the company as assistant to the president, becoming thereafter vice president, the position he held at the time of his election to the presidency.

Sixteen years with the American Can Company, during which time the corporation passed from its formative stage to its present highly organized state, has eminently fitted Mr. Figgins for his new post.

Executives who are closely associated with the new president are men of proved ability in their own spheres, all possessing the enthusiasm and progressing spirit which characterizes the younger generation of American business men. The choice of Berry Rockwell, vice president of the Macavoy Advertising Agency as sales manager is in direct line with this policy. Others besides Mr. Figgins who occupy official positions with the corporation are E. E. Veatch, vice president; L. A. Stobbs, secretary and general counsel and C. R. Hammer, treasurer.

LESS THAN DOLLAR A DAY
PERSONAL EXPENSE ON TOUR

Perhaps it was John Burroughs or Rudyard Kipling, perhaps it was Elbert Hubbard who spoke of getting where one could "hear the heart of nature beat" as the ideal place to spend a vacation.

Whoever said it was a mighty wise man according to the most eminent neurologists, for getting "back to nature" is the greatest cure for a jaded appetite and ragged nerves.

Formerly the "getting back" meant discomfort—one listened to the babbling brook and the malicious mosquito at the same time and forsook a comfortable bed for a lumpy piece of ground where every blade of grass was like a porcupine quill.

But now the up-to-date nature hunter goes in his car.

Chris Bertsch, Studebaker dealer, tells how to do it.

"A Studebaker car," he tells us, "can be 'made up' just like any Pullman. The rear seat is 48 inches wide, just a little narrower than the regulation double bed. Lift up the removable front seats, turn them around so that their backs are to the front, pull the back cushion forward and drop it down in the tonneau and you have an ideal bed foundation. Then a blanket or two and pillows are all you need to make two people thoroughly comfortable."

"The Studebaker top with its jiffy type storm curtains is much more satisfactory than the average tent, and, in the car there's no danger of a miniature flood wetting everything and your having to dress with your feet in a puddle of water. You are also away from bugs, ants, etc., that are apt to crawl over you if you sleep on the ground."

"A compact, portable cooking outfit costs only a few dollars and there's plenty of room for it and the other baggage in the big Studebaker tonneau."

"I know of no car but the Studebaker that is so thoroughly adaptable to this purpose."

"Friends of mine have already tried the scheme in their Studebaker cars and are so enthusiastic that I felt it a shame to keep such a good idea dark."

"It seems to me like an ideal vacation plan for the motorist who owns a car that can be used as my friends have used their Studebakers."

The Six That Saves You Money!!

Not just a Six for less money—but a Six that in dollar for dollar value compares with cars costing from $300 to $400 more!

The Sixes that compare in value with the New Willys Six cost around $1600.

Run over the list of Sixes in the $1600 range and make your own comparison.

Anything prettier than this, New Willys Six with its smart new double cowl body, slanting windshield and long, low racy lines?

And then compare performance.

The livelier feel of the Willys Six is due to a new balance we have worked out between greater power and sturdier lightweight.

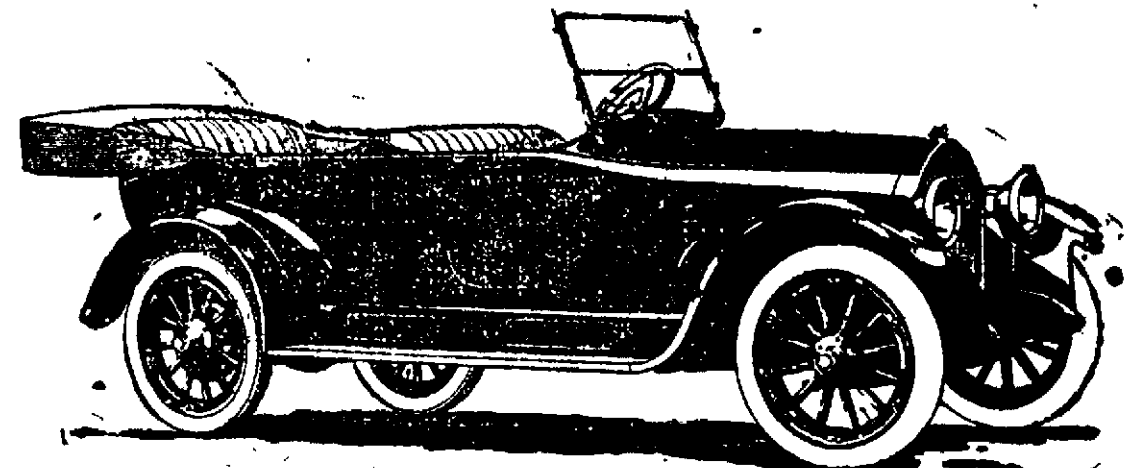

It gives the Willys Six more snap and life—makes it easier to handle.

Then there's the saving of $300 to $400 in favor of the Willys Six.

Studebaker Mechanical Superiorities STEERING GEAR

The Studebaker Steering Gear—18 inches in diameter

The irreversible Steering Gear—have a salesman explain it.

Steering Gear, showing worm and full worm wheel.

after long, hard service the metal wears down, as any metal will, you simply give the wheel a quarter turn and it is ready for another period of service, every bit as long and as consistent as the first.

This again shows how Studebaker design is worked out to the benefit and profit of Studebaker owners. It is features like this that make Studebakers the safest, easiest cars to run on the market; features well worth considering if you ever expect to have a woman drive your car, or if you want to be sure that driving long distances will not weary you.

The Studebaker irreversible steering gear is an important factor in safe and easy driving, as any Studebaker owner will tell you.

Let us show it to you in one of the Series 18 Studebakers.

BISMARCK MOTOR Co.

Studebaker Distributors
416 Broadway Bismarck, N. D.

THE Studebaker Steering Gear is absolutely irreversible. This means driving comfort, for you never have to hold a Studebaker in the road; ruts and car tracks cannot twist it from its course.

The gear itself is a worm and full worm wheel. That may sound rather complicated and perhaps you had better let a salesman explain it to you, but this is what it does—the worm gear, while it permits you to steer with the least possible effort, absolutely prevents any movement of the steering wheel due to road shocks, car tracks, ruts and the like.

The full worm wheel is an added economy measure, for, when
